When we moved out of our 24,000 sq ft office building that had been our headquarters for 20 years, we never could have imagined the time and energy necessary to get it back into its original state. We completed the move with 30 days remaining on our lease and thought that was plenty of time to clean it out and dispose of what was left in the building. Following a seemingly endless weekend, and with 5 business days left on our lease, we concluded that several weeks would be necessary if we couldn't figure out a better way. On Sunday, I called Cleanups Unlimited and they were there first thing Monday morning with dumpsters, a crew of workers, and a purpose. By Wednesday, they were done and we spent the final two days wishing we had called them months earlier. We have since contacted them for other jobs and have received the same commitment and extraordinary service.
